Pre-Submission Checklist:

1. Have you included any copyrighted material in your Dissertation?

If yes, have you obtained permission to include that copyrighted material in your Dissertation?

If you included copyrighted material and have not obtained permission, then you must obtain these permissions before you can continue with the submission process. Contact the Office of Legal Affairs if you have any questions.

2. Does your Dissertation disclose or describe any inventions or discoveries that could potentially have commercial application and therefore warrant patenting? (If you and/or your faculty advisor(s) have any questions about making this determination, please contact the Office of Technology Commercialization & Industry Relations).

If yes, the technology transfer and patenting process necessitates further conversation before you can continue with the ETD submission process, in order to determine the appropriate embargo on access to your dissertation to protect patent eligibility.

3. Are you requesting an access restriction for your Dissertation? Colleges at Georgia State have different policies regarding embargos, and many require permission for an embargo, so be sure to check with your college before making this decision.

No embargo required By choosing no embargo you are agreeing to publish your Dissertation in ScholarWorks@GSU immediately after graduation. This option will provide the broadest possible access to your work. The full-text of your Dissertation and any supplemental files will be accessible on the internet for unlimited viewing. Your Dissertation will be indexed and discoverable via major search engines.

Embargo By choosing an embargo, you are requesting that there be no access to the full-text of your Dissertation for a specified period of time. Your dissertation will be listed and indexed in the Georgia State University Library Catalog and in ScholarWorks@GSU, but the full text of your Dissertation, and any supplementary files, will not be accessible until the expiration of the embargo. Your Dissertation will be listed and indexed in the Georgia State University Library Catalog and in ScholarWorks@GSU, but the full text of your Dissertation, and any supplementary files, will not be accessible until the expiration of the embargo. The title, author, keywords, and abstract will be displayed on the web in the record for your Dissertation even if you have restricted access to the full-text copy. If you are embargoing due to patentability concerns, make sure your abstract is written so as to not be considered prior art. If do not want an abstract displayed at all, enter "No abstract to protect patentability" in the abstract field when you upload your Dissertation.

Closed By choosing a Closed Thesis or Closed Dissertation you limit online access to the full-text of your submission to the Georgia State University campus (IP address). No one outside of GSU will be able to see your thesis or dissertation. This is the equivalent of the access that was available when theses and dissertations were only on a library shelf. Your thesis or dissertation will be shared as the result of an Interlibrary Loan request.

4. Has your Dissertation formatting been approved by your college?
If not, you must have your formatting approved before submitting your Dissertation.
