

Faith Booker
February 21, 2014
GSURC Abstract

Slang or Nah?

The slang language is a great part of language usage in present day society. Although this choice of language for the most part is judged as “bad” language and even sometimes the lack of intellect in an individual, it can be argued that these theories are incorrect. This project will enlighten one’s knowledge of slang dialect, where it came from, and challenge whether this form of language is “bad” or a sign of lack of education.